THE EPIPHIPPIC.

SPREADING IN THE CITY.

TWO FATAL CASES REPORTED.

Since our last report the epizootic has broken out in the Livery Stables of the Messrs. Dunn & Bro's. and Kelly &

Co's, but in both places the disease seems to be light and of a harmless type. Several more cases have appeared in private stables, showing the advancing of the disease. At Wynne, Yancy &

Co's Stable the horses are rapidly improving, and many have been put on light duty. We heard of the death of two horses

Sunday on the outskirts of the city that were attacked, but there are many more that are too poor to resist the effects of two coughs, and will die as sure as they are taken. For the sake of the horses

we hope they will.

The prevalence of the Epizootic in the city is beginning to seriously damage the commercial interests. But few farmers brought cotton in town yesterday, and what little was brought, drawn by oxen. We assure our country friends there is no more danger with stock in the city than if they were forty miles distant, and moreover all horses with the disease on them are required by an order from the Mayor to be taken off the streets.

The weather is still balmy, and favorable for the spread of the malady.

After receiving this Company in regutaken to the Raleigh and Gaston Rail-

BO. TON'S CALAMITY.

Almost in the twinkling of an eye the fire fiend has devoured the heart of Boston. Millions upon millions of property have been destroyed in a single day. The harrowing scenes of the great Chicago conflagration have been re-enacted on a grand scale in the wealthiest and most populous city of New England. The rich and mighty, by one fell swoop of the fire King's wrath, have been reduced from affluence and power to penury and want. Those in comfortable circumstances have seen their accumulations of years of patient toil and care suddenly disappear in the general wreck. The poor and needy have become ten times poorer, and men, women and children, the helpless victims of an awful dispensation, are now roaming charred and blackened streets, homeless, half distracted, half famished, filling the air with heart-groans of grief, agony, despair!

The particulars of this shocking and direful catastrophe will be found in to-day's paper, under the head of Sunday dispatches.

On last Sabbath morning, a bright and beautiful autumnal day, while the citizens of Raleigh were engaged in offering up their prayers to the Throne of Divine Grace, the city of Boston was one wild scene of terror and consternation. At seven o'clock, Saturday evening, the alarm of fire was given, and during the whole night the flames had raged uncontrolled and uncontrollable until the proudest and noblest structures had fallen a prey to the devouring element.

At the time our dispatches closed Sunday afternoon, over two hundred million dollars of property had been consumed and five miles of the city had been laid in ashes. We may get farther intelligence of the extent of the loss sustained and incidents connected with the conflagration, before going to press. If so, they will be found in our telegraphic columns.

We regard the destruction of Boston as a great national calamity. Independent of the great pecuniary loss which it will inflict upon the immediate sufferers, and which will be felt in a greater or less degree in every State and village in the Union, the scenes of suffering and distress, of wretchedness, devastation and ruin which a conflagration so wide-spread and so destructive must necessarily cause, need no word-painting at our hands to awaken the deepest and tenderest sympathies of every humane heart!

If the South has been oppressed, and outraged and trampled down—if our people have been reduced to poverty and bankruptcy by hostile legislation and unkind treatment—if our overtures of peace and friendship have been rejected with derision and disdain—if suspicion, distrust and enmity on the part of the North have kept the Southern States in a condition of political inferiority and vassalage, thank God we have not yet lost our feelings of benevolence and humanity.

In the same God-like spirit which prompted the Confederate soldier on the battle field, in response to the dying request of a wounded Federal, to bathe his parched lips with a draft of cold water, to alleviate the agonies of death, of the people of the South will feel a deep sorrow as the wail of distress is borne to their ears from a distant City of the North, and emotions of pity and sympathy will be enkindled in their hearts.

DEATH OF COL. ROBERT H. COWAN.

Our noon dispatches announce the death of this distinguished gentleman, at his residence in Wilmington, at eight o'clock yesterday morning.

This intelligence will carry sorrow to many a heart in North Carolina, but will fall with peculiar weight upon the people of the Cape Fear section who knew Col. Cowan best, who almost revered him for his many noble and sterling qualities, and who felt a just pride in his talents and eloquence.

Col. Cowan was never an office seeker and has not filled many public stations. With the exception of two or three terms in the State Legislature, we believe he has not been in public life but he possessed talents and qualifications that would have enabled him to adorn any position in the gift of the people. He was at one time President of the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Railroad, and at the time of his death, was the President of the Wilmington Life Insurance Company.

During the war he was Colonel of a North Carolina Regiment of infantry, which he commanded with distinguished skill and gallantry.

In every position in which he was placed, he did his duty faithfully, honestly, conscientiously, and he has left behind him a noble character and spotless name.

Col. Cowan's death was not unexpected as he has been in wretched health for many months. Change of climate, devoted attention and the best medical skill have been unavailing. The hand of the Reaper, Death, could not be stayed, and his relentless scythe has laid low a pure and generous soul.

Robert H. Cowan is no more! His lofty spirit has winged its flight heavenward. His noble and gallant heart has ceased to beat. But his memory will live in the affections of the true sons of North Carolina as long as honor, patriotism and eloquence are admired and revered among them!

Although he has gone from among us—although that manly form will no more be seen on earth—and that eloquent voice no more be heard pleading for the rights and liberties and honor of his native State; yet we feel a melancholy pleasure in glancing at his honorable and spotless career. We are proud of his character—proud of his gallant devotion to the State—proud of his integrity, his fervid patriotism, his glowing eloquence, and his great private and public worth.

We have always had a peculiar admiration for Col. Cowan, and we regard his death at this time as a serious calamity to the State. Well may we exclaim:

"The flash of wit—the bright intelligence,
—the blaze of eloquence,
—the beam of social elegance,
Set with his sun."

THE ATTACK UPON GOVERNOR VANCE.

We will publish to-morrow the reply of Gov. Z. B. Vance to the grossly false and libelous attack made upon him in a letter written by a correspondent of the New York Times, from Statesville, N. C., which was subsequently copied by the Statesville American. The Times' correspondent charges Gov. Vance with being implicated in some fraudulent transaction with G. W. Swenson.

Gov. Vance's reply is a bold, manly, triumphant vindication from the infamous slanders of an anonymous scribbler, to whom he administers a severe but well-merited rebuke.

We do not think there was any necessity on the part of Gov. Vance to vindicate himself from such charges, and he doubtless would not have noticed the mendacious writer at all if one of his letters to Judge Henry, which he fully explains, had not been incorporated in the correspondence and made the basis of misrepresentation and falsehood, by the writer for the Times.

PROMPT.

As soon as the Mayor of Raleigh heard of the disastrous conflagration in Boston, and while the fire was still raging, he issued a public notice, requesting our citizens to meet in Metropolitan Hall Monday evening, to express their sympathies for the sufferers, and to take such measures looking to their relief as they might deem proper.

Gen. Grant carried the following States on the 5th inst.: Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin, with a total electoral vote of 278. Greeley carried the States of Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Missouri, Tennessee and Texas, with a total electoral vote of 74. With Alabama and Florida still undecided, possessing 14 electoral votes.

Petersburg has its ox teams, as a result of the horse disease prevailing there. Says the Appeal of Monday: "One of the two ox teams in the employ of Messrs. McIlwaine & Co., took occasion Saturday to run away on Sycamore street, and to scatter the bales of cotton wherewith they were loaded, in every direction along that avenue. The spectacle of the escape was not devoid of its humorous aspects, and the people who looked thereon grinned audibly. The team was suppressed before they accomplished any wreck of matter or crush of words."

The Virginia papers concede the State to Grant by a few thousand majority. The Petersburg Appeal says: "At whose door the responsibility for this great calamity lies, for such we regard it in its bearing on all future elections, we have neither the time nor the disposition to inquire. We have no recriminations to indulge, no jeerings to sing."

The examination of the Woodhull-Clafin affair, for publishing libellous matter in regard to Luther C. Chellis, is progressing before Justice Fowler's Court in New York. The World says: "The only relevant testimony elicited was mostly such as to be unfit for publication. Our columns are not to be made the means of diffusing a disgusting libel, nor of stocking the just sentiments of decent men and women."

The Norfolk (Va.) Journal reports that a party of gentlemen who went deer hunting in Isle of Wight county a few days ago, came suddenly upon four deer whose appearance indicated that they were suffering with the malady prevailing among the horses. The deer made no attempt to escape, and seemed evidently in the last stage of the disease.

The Petersburg (Va.) Appeal learned on Saturday that Mr. Richard Coleman, proprietor of Coleman's stables, had become affected by the hipporhinorrhea, developing the usual symptoms.

Sergeant Bates has begun his senseless and sensational tour through Europe—he is flaunting the American flag in the faces of the people of that country, regardless of the consequences.

A new postoffice has been established at Stony Cross, Mecklenburg county, Va., on the route from Forksville to Boydton, with James A. Gregory as postmaster.

Henry Ward Beecher's people of Plymouth Church refuse to take any notice of the late attack upon his character by Woodhull & Claflin.

The papers generally concede the defeat on the 5th inst., of—O'Connor

CONCLUSION OF GOV. VANCE'S SPEECH AT WAKE FOREST.

A spell of skepticism came upon the young, senior and the young graduate as naturally as the spell of love ere long—or as the merles in childhood! He reads, and perforce admires, Hamlet, Bolingbroke, Gibbon, Voltaire, and thoughts present themselves, which he imagines never before, since the world began, entered the mind of man. He has made a discovery—it seems clear to him; and he wonders at the hypocrisy or stupidity of preaching and priestcraft. He wants the world to know that he, at least, is not to be deluded with cunningly devised fables by the Hebrews—Jews—and old wives' tales. It sounds so large, too, to deal with everybody else. It smacks of genius. He is strongly tempted by the glittering fallacies of materialism to forsake the simple faith of his fathers—aye, of his own kind father and anxious mother.

But he is not deceived. We all know that "Reason is but a sorry guide even in the affairs of this world, and so, in those of the next must be altogether rash and ruinous. The greatest intellects of the world have had all the doubts and suggestions you have thought new and peculiar to yourselves; they have sounded all the depths and shallows of human skepticism, and have sounded all the depths and shallows of human skepticism, and have found it worse than folly. None can escape the conviction of the existence of a beneficent God—the grain of corn and the blade of grass, the flower and the forest, the sea and the heavens—all, and everything, proclaim and prove that in spite of us; and if the Bible be not a Revelation of his will concerning us and the things inscrutable to sense, then has he never made one, but has left us utterly and miserably ignorant of the nature and wants of that inner and higher consciousness we all feel, call it the soul or by what other name you will.

There is no book so God-like as the Bible. There is none other which has in it so little of the earth, earthy.

Dismiss, my dear young friends, if you have them, all such ideas as I have described as skeptical and natural to you; and go forth to your positions in the world strong in the faith of that God from whom cometh every good thing; all true progress, all true civilization, all genuine freedom, all desirable wisdom. "Whence then cometh wisdom? And where is the place of understanding? Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all living, and kept close from the fowls of the air. Destruction and death say, we have heard the fame thereof with ears. The depth saith, it is not in us; and the sea saith, it is not with me. God understandeth the way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof. For he looketh to the ends of the earth; and seeth under the whole heavens. And unto man he said, Behold, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom; and to depart from evil, that is understanding."

Go forth and assume your duties in society, remembering your liberties are worth what they cost in their establishment. Remember that great and good of every age have stroven to perfect them, and that it is your duty to seek diligently for the means and power to do likewise. Resolve, as you must become partisans—for governments are necessarily controlled by parties—that you will yet remain patriots. Labor incessantly to preserve bright and pure the sacred flame of liberty amid all the temptations and wayward tendencies of the age. Pray for the prosperity of our political Zion, that her strength may be as her days require; that as foes assault, her towers may rise higher, her bulwarks increased, until she stands victorious over kings and principalities and powers, and the weary of earth are gathered securely beneath the peaceful shadow of her walls.

VALUABLE LAND FOR SALE

IN THE

COUNTY OF WARREN.

On TUESDAY, 25th day of NOVEMBER, on the premises, in the county of Warren, I shall sell at public auction, five hundred and thirty-two (322) acres of land, in the county of Warren, on Shocco Creek, near the White Sulphur Springs, adjoining the land of J. M. Hick, and others. The land lies on both sides of the Turnpike Road, leading from the Sulphur Springs to Raleigh, and nine miles from the latter place. About one-fourth (1/4) of the tract is in original growth of oak, hickory, &c., and one-half in second growth. The soil surface is undulating, soil fertile, well watered, and yields excellent crops of wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, oats, clover, &c. There are about 80 acres of rich bottom land on the tract. This is one of the best tracts of land in this section.

Terms—one-fourth (1/4) cash, balance in one and two years.

A. S. PERRY, Per Jos. J. Davis, Attorney.

PROMOTE THE SALE

The Raleigh Daily News.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1872.

I'LL KNOW THEE THERE.

G. D. Prentice said: No living poet can surpass in gracefulness and beauty the following lines, from the muse of Amelia. They are exceedingly beautiful:

Pale star, that with thy soft, and light
Came out upon my bride's eye,
I have a song to sing to thee,
Before thou takest thy mournful leave,
Since then so softly time has stirred
That months have almost seemed like hours.

And I am like a little bird
That slept too long among the flowers,
And waking still with wistful eyes,
Soft singing 'mid the shadows of eve;
But oh, with saddest heart I sing,
I sing of one who dwells in Heaven.

The winds are soft, the clouds are few,
And tenderest thought my heart befriends,
As floating up through mist and dew
The pale young moon comes out and smiles,
And to the green responding shore,
In silvery troops the ripples crowd,
Till all the ocean, dimpled o'er,
Lifts up its voice and laughs aloud;

And star on star, all soft and calm,
Floats up yon arch serenely blue;
And, lost to earth and steeped in him,
My spirit floats in ether, too.

Loved one! though lost to human sight,
I feel thy spirit lingering near,
And softly as I feel the light
That comes through the atmosphere,
As in some temple's holy shades,
Though mute the hymn and hushed the prayer.

A solemn awe the soul pervades,
Which tells that woe has been there;
A breath of incense, left alone
Where many a censer swung around,
Will thrill the woe-worn heart with awe,
Who tread on consecrated ground.

I know thy soul from words of bliss
Yet stoops awhile to dwell with me,
Hath caught the prayer I breathed in this
That I at last might dwell with thee;
I hear a murmur from the seas,
That thrills me like the spirit's sighs;
I hear a voice on every breeze,
That makes to mine its low replies—
A voice all low and sweet like thine;
It gives an answer to my prayer,
And brings my soul from Heaven a sigh
That I will know and meet thee there.

For ah! I think you, within whose sphere
The sweet of youth and beauty met,
That swam in love and softness here,
Must swim in love and softness yet,
For ah! I think you, within whose sphere
The sweet of youth and beauty met,
That swam in love and softness here,
Must swim in love and softness yet.

I wonder if this cool, sweet breeze
Hath touched thy lips and found thy brow,
For all my spirit hears and sees
Recalls thee to my memory now;
For every hour that I am apart
Will but increase, if that can be,
The love that fills this lonely heart
Already filled as full of thee.

Yet many a tear these eyes must weep
And many a sigh must be forgiven,
Ere these pale lips shall speak to thee—
And you and I shall meet in Heaven.
